Studio Pottery Celadon

Fine Porcelain (3067)

Reminiscent of a fresh meadow, with its pale yellow/green glaze complimented by an earthy brown accent. The artists' two-toned application adds a dramatic flair to the many geometric shapes and serving vessels. Another reason to go green, food has a natural affinity to be plated on this color.

Care & Handling

With a few simple precautions, your china will provide years of attractive, durable service. We offer the following recommendations:

Washing:

- Improper use of a pre-soak solution can cause a chemical reaction with the china's glaze, etching the glaze surface. Once etched, the surface is more prone to glaze abrasion, metal marking and food staining.
- Never use scouring powder or a scouring pad to remove stains. The only product we recommend for removing food soil deposits is the white 3M Scotch-Brite® 9030 pad.

Handling:

- Always scrape and rack soiled china immediately after use.
- Never allow soiled dishes to stand overnight.
- Avoid stacking soiled china. If a backlog does occur, stack by item not more than twelve pieces high on the back counter.

Quality Assurance

Quality

To maximize the beauty and long usage of your stainless or silverplate investment, check each of the quality points shown here.

Materials

Silverplate – During silverplating, extra silver is deposited on the back of each piece for longer wear.

Stainless – All of Oneida's stainless includes 18% chrome for superior resistance to food and cleaning chemicals, as well as protection against corrosion. The 18/10 combination includes 10% nickel, respectively, for a soft silver-like luster to complement the exceptional durability.

The enduring elegance of silverplate

Nothing can match the distinctive beauty of silver. Along with exceptional cuisine, fine wines and hospitable service, fine silverplate helps you establish an identity of excellence. Silver actually becomes more beautiful and durable with use; normal handling and burnishing hardens the surface and develops the mellow patina associated with antique silver. In addition, today's improved, portable burnishing equipment makes it simple to give your silverplate the best care at a reasonable cost, with a minimum of labor.

Finish

A quality finish makes flatware more comfortable to hold, more resistant to damage from food particles — and more pleasing to the eye. Overall smoothness and luster are combined with clear crisp pattern styling. Edges should be well buffed with no rough spots. A smooth uniform finish also allows for easier cleaning. Compare other flatware finishes to Oneida, and you'll see why we are the industry leader.

Grading

The spoon is thickest at the handle shank and tapers to a thin edge at the bowl's tip, thanks to a rolling process called grading. Oneida's grading combines balance with strength. Metal is distributed to areas that need strength, providing durability for rough handling without adding unnecessary bulk. For properly graded flatware that provides superior comfort and durability, look for a graceful taper, strength that resists bending, and a balanced feel.

Casting

All borders, handles, spouts, and ornamentation are cast by pouring hot casting alloys into a two piece mold, then quickly cooling in water. The metal hardens instantaneously. The two-piece casting leaves no seam or joints.

Soldering

On each piece of holloware, skilled craftsmen use the exact amount of solder to form a lifelong bond between the casting and the body.

Stainless as a long-term investment

Quality stainless helps you get more for your tableware investment by providing a longer life of beautiful and durable service. Today's customers are spending more of every dollar dining out. Quality stainless helps create a fine dining atmosphere that keeps this profitable audience coming back. Your stainless steel will give extra long service and will always look great when properly cared for. Materials such as eggs, vinegar and acids found in foods should be removed by soaking, washing and rinsing thoroughly immediately after stainless is used.

Quality Assurance

Flatware Care & Handling

Fine silverplate and stainless flatware will give you extra long service and will always look great when properly cared for. We offer the following recommendations.

Handling:

- Minimum amount of handling is required when perforated cylinders in a portable rack are used to transport, wash, and dispense flatware.
- When using a system where the flatware is transferred from a cleaning cylinder to a storage cylinder by inversion sort flatware tines, bowls and blades up.

Separate flatware, holloware and china in bus trays.

Rinsing:

- Consider adding a wetting agent to the rinse to prevent minerals in the water from staining your metalware.
- Pre-soak and wash metalware immediately after its removal from the table. Do not leave metalware in the pre-soak solution for more than 20 minutes before it is washed. Change the pre-soak solution after two or three cycles of use. Chemicals accumulate in pre-soak and may cause harm.
- Utilize a softener if you have very hard water. A high chloride content in the water can also be damaging.

Always rinse clean metalware in water of at least 180° F.

Quality Assurance

Washing:

- Remove all remnants of food from metalware items immediately after use. Avoid using steel wool or metal scrapers.
- Always separate flatware and holloware for pre-soaking and use a plastic or stainless steel pan, never aluminum.
- Do not use a pre-soak solution containing acidic silver detarnishing agents, including chlorides, bromides or iodides, as these products cause severe corrosion.

- Always wash your metalware in hot water and make sure you choose a cleaning agent free of abrasive or corrosive qualities that might damage your metalware.
- Avoid low-temp dishwashing. It is not suited for metalware.

When flatware is transported and washed in the same cylinder, sort flatware tines, bowls and blades down. This prevents contamination when items are removed for setting the tables.

Load the washing machine with the openings of hollow pieces facing down.

Storing:

Always make sure your metalware is clean and dry before storing to avoid corrosion and oxidation marks.

Keep your holloware pieces together in a dry area. Plastic or wooden racks provide the best storage.

Quality Assurance

Pertaining to Silverplate Metalware Only

Detarnishing:

Critical to the care of silverplate is proper detarnishing, particularly prior to burnishing. Pieces should be de-tarnished about every 15 days. Consult a reputable manufacturer of the silverplate or of the detarnishing product for the method best suited to your needs. Always follow the manufacturer's directions carefully. Always remove knives with stainless steel blades from the detarnishing solution within 30 seconds. Longer exposure tends to lead to discoloration and corrosion of the blades.

Burnishing:

Invest in a fine vibratory or tumble-type burnishing machine, manufactured in sizes to fit any operation. Always keep your burnisher clean and follow the manufacturer's instructions. Do not burnish hollow handle knives.

Storing:

Provide adequate space when storing, ideally away from air conditioning and sulfur containing vapors.
